EVALUATING THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

One of the most important jobs of a nonprofit board is evaluating the executive director. Here are some tips on how to do this effectively.

Background:
A performance evaluation is the analysis of an employee’s performance with respect to the employee’s job descriptions. It is often done in conjunction with an annual salary review. It is also the process by which an organization can obtain feedback about the effectiveness of its employees.

Evaluating the Executive Director is closely linked to evaluating the overall progress of the organization. The goal should be to focus on how the ED’s performance contributes to or detracts from the organization successfully carrying out its mission and goals in both the short- and long-term. It should not be a checklist of tasks with report card grades attached. It should be a conversation between the ED and Board representatives that analyses progress to date and makes recommendations for improvement (if any) in the future. Written evaluation materials can help structure this conversation, but they should not be substituted for the conversation itself.

Purpose:
A performance evaluation should help the ED to understand what is truly important for the organization and optimize the help he/she needs to achieve success for the organization. In order to do this successfully, the Board members responsible need to have a good understanding of the direction and priorities of the organization.

Tip 1: Never have the entire Board involved in the entire evaluation process. At most, a committee of four or five – gathering input from others as needed – should be able to complete the actual evaluation and to report back to the full Board.

Tip 2: An annual Board self-evaluation prior to the evaluation can create a shared perspective needed for joint accountability for the organization.
Executive Director Performance Review activities:
The Board of Directors of ________ assumes responsibility for the annual performance review of the Executive Director, and the determination of the rate of compensation of the Executive Director. Input may be received from the Executive Director of Domestic Violence Program during the review process, and a summary of the review by the ________ board will be provided to the Executive Director of Domestic Violence Program.

1. Determine who is in charge of the review process. Often it will be the Executive Committee, or a combination of the current chair and the chair-elect. It can also be an appointed committee that changes each year.
   a. The __________ Board of directors will annually appoint two members to serve as the Executive Director Performance Review Committee.

2. Determine who is involved in providing data for the review. Only Executive Committee? Only Board? Some staff? All staff? Donors or partners?
   a. The ED Performance Review Committee will solicit information from other board members, members of the MDT and collaborating agencies, and ________ staff.

3. Determine how to collect information.
   a. The ED Performance Review Committee will distribute surveys to a focus group of active participants of the MDT and collaborating agencies, staff, and other board members. The committee will also request that the Executive Director write his/her own self-assessment. This information is utilized in the performance review discussion with the ED.

4. Determine who will summarize and present data to the ED. Sometimes it’s important to maintain confidentiality.
   a. The chairperson of the Performance Review Committee will meet with the ED to present the results during the review process.

5. Determine how you will communicate results back to the full Board.
   a. A Summary Report will be prepared by the committee and reviewed by the Board.

6. Make a timeline that is consistent annually and try to stick with it.
   a. The Performance Review Committee will be appointed in July of each year. Gathering feedback, the ED self-evaluation, and meeting with the ED should occur in August and the summary report to the Board will be presented at the September Board meeting. This timeline will allow the Performance Review to be completed prior to the adoption of the budget for the coming year.

7. If your Executive Director has a contract that specifies responsibilities, use this in helping shape the review. If your Executive Director prepares an annual work plan, encourage discussion of workplan accomplishments to be part of the evaluation session. Consider reviewing prior year evaluation results as you move into your current year evaluation discussions.

a. The Evaluation Process will include the review of the Job Description of the ED as to its content and current application.
1. Do you have any comments or suggestions on how the organization can be run more effectively?

2. How have your job duties changed during the past year?

3. What are your expectations for this job during the next year? Are there any areas in which you see a need for improvement? Are there any ways you would like your job to be restructured to better suit your needs or goals?

4. Comment on the Board’s effectiveness in providing guidance and giving feedback, and give suggestions for improvement.

5. Is there any aspect of your job situation that could be changed to improve your job satisfaction or performance?
   a. Physical surroundings/equipment
   b. Office hours
   c. Compensation
   d. Benefits
   e. Training and Development Opportunities
   f. Travel Opportunities
